RedWind Consulting Partners with Nayxa Energy to Provide Wind Resource Assessment Services

Exclusive arrangement further broadens RedWind's service offering

Minneapolis, MN – January 13, 2015 – RedWind Consulting, a renewable energy consulting firm, has negotiated and agreed to function as the exclusive North American agent for Nayxa Energy Services located in Madrid, Spain. RedWind now will be able to offer comprehensive wind resource assessment services to its clients worldwide.

“We are delighted to broaden our service offerings in the highly critical and technical wind resource assessment arena,” said Dan Rustowicz, chief manager of RedWind Consulting. “We look forward to working with a global, proven and trusted partner such as Nayxa. We have experienced firsthand their dedication to client service, attention to detail and superior deliverables for the benefit of one of our clients.”

The agreement is the result of Nayxa first approaching RedWind about collaboration and then several months of talks between the parties.

“At Nayxa we are pleased to be partnering with RedWind, a well-respected company that shares our values of quality and superior customer service,” states José Miguel Jáuregui, technical manager of Nayxa Energy Services. “RedWind offers us an exceptional opportunity to work within North America given its extensive relationships.”

With this arrangement the wind energy industry now has more options for wind resource assessment services, which will drive both efficiencies and cost savings.
